By JOHN THOMPSON

WITH AMERICAN AIRBORNE TROOPS IN SICILY—(Delayed)—It's quiet today, oddly quiet, in the cool shade of our Sicilian orchard. The noise of battle has passed and overhead a Spitfire patrol which appeared for the first time yesterday, replacing what seemed to be the ever-present enemy fighters and bombers.

(Editors: the date this dispatch was filed is not given.)
In this strange and unaccustomed quiet you glance through the grove at tired men improving the sand slit-trenches or cleaning their guns, and you marvel again at the ability and stamina of the American soldier, particularly these airborne soldiers. In fancy they might be a band of Robin Hood's men bivouacking in Sherwood Forest, their olive green jump suits, often camouflaged with darker dapples of green, completing the picture. But these men are an even tougher breed.

You have just seen them in their first combat. They parachuted through the night into Axis strong points. They battled their way along the coast and inland, fighting as guerrillas, and then, drawn together into a small combat team and reinforced with tanks and artillery, they fought as well as any Yanks have ever fought.
It was their first fight, but you would have thought they were old hands at it. Some mistakes naturally were made, but these shock troops distinguished themselves brilliantly.

The task force which they aided was able to provide only a few jeeps and trucks for a limited time. The industrious parachute troops have been coming up to this area in everything from captured Italian tanklets, trucks, hearses and bicycles to peasant carts, sedans, motorcycles, horses and jackasses. They had to appoint a stable officer and establish a picket line when 30 jackasses appeared.

ALLIES BEAT OFF ATTACKS AND GO ON

Meandering Along the Main Stem

by WASH. FAYETTE

Comparatively few of you Fayette countians have had occasion to fight that worst of all parasites, Dodder, which has also been called strangle-weed, love vine, devil's gut, daughter vine, scald weed and other names.
This vine is one of the worst pests known when it once gains a foot-hold and requires careful and persistent attention year after year to eradicate it.
Some of our farmers have had experience with the clover dodder vine, which is just one of the 100 varieties of the strangle vine that sucks most of the life out of any plant it entwines.
Some varieties live only on certain shrubs and plants and seem partial to certain mints as their "host."
The vines are leafless, white or yellow in color and grow clusters of seeds along its thin strands. I have seen the vines 10 feet in length and no thicker than the lead of an ordinary pencil.
The vines spring up, clutch a plant or shrub, and proceed to entwine about it, throwing out numerous smaller vines as it grows. Innumerable suckers on the vines fasten to the stems of the "host" plant and live from the juice of the plant. The root of the vine and lower part of it soon dies out, leaving the living vines growing from the plant it has entwined.
I have seen very little of the vine in Fayette County, but in parts of Jackson County and other hill counties, in waste places, I have seen large patches of it strangling the vegetation it has attacked.
In the southern states, notably in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and some of the other states, I have seen the vines almost a solid mass along the highways for mile after mile.
Like the Canadian thistle, Johnson grass and a few other pests, the "strangle weed," or whatever one may call it, is a dangerous pest to permit upon one's premises.

Catholic Daughters Oppose War Jobs for Them

CLEVELAND, July 15.—(P)—A leader of the Catholic Daughters of America praised the group today for taking a stand against employment of mothers in war jobs.
"We are glad to know you are opposing particularly mothers who leave a family at home," asserted Miss Mary E. McKeogh, national chairman of the organization's Social Welfare Department, in a prepared address.
Delegates to the Catholic Daughters Convention adopted a resolution last night declaring "no contribution is made to the successful prosecution of the war by the working mother who leaves her children unsupervised."

Squeeze Put on Enemy at New Guinea Base by Americans and Aussies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 15.—(P)—American and Australian troops in the New Guinea theater, keying their attack to the continuing all-American drive against Munda 700 miles to the east, are closing in on Japanese positions in the Mubo area "for decisive action."

This new offensive, announced in a special statement tonight from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, was said by an official spokesman to be designed to clear the long-contested Mubo zone of all enemy troops and pin the Japanese back to their lines around Salamaua, on the eastern New Guinea shoreline 12 miles to the north.
The pattern of extermination now launched by the Allies at Mubo followed closely that already unfolding before the Japanese airbase of Munda, on New Georgia Island in the central Solomons.

FIELD OPENED AT WILMINGTON

Increasing Number of Planes And Many Gliders Expected Over This Section

Activity at the Army Air Forces new glider test field at Wilmington, only 20 miles west of Washington C. H., officially got under way Thursday. The field, which will be under the administration of Wright Field, will be used exclusively for the development and testing of experimental installations and modifications of gliders.

Hangars, control tower, administration building, barracks, mess hall, day room and garage constitute the principal buildings which are now ready for occupancy. Construction of the field began in November, 1942, and was continued throughout the winter by the corps of engineers without a break until completed. Work on the runways, which equal 20 miles of 22-foot highway, was continued regardless of snow and ice storms and when spring came, landing mats of the type used in combat zones were laid over the mud to permit trucks to continue operations.

Maxon Quits OPA When Offer To Run Whole Show Denied

Departure, However, Marked by Bombastic Criticism of 'Red Tape' and Incompetence of 'Professors and Slide-rule Boys'

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(P)—Dynamic, red-haired Lou R. Maxon, Detroit advertising executive who bounded into Washington several months ago full of confidence that he was just what the Office of Price Administration (OPA) needed, bounced right out today with the firm conviction that Houdini himself couldn't untangle OPA's "legalistic red tape."
All that remained on his once busy desk were a Washington street car token and a partly-filled bottle of eye-wash.
A secretary who handed out Maxon's farewell statement last night, in which he criticized "confusion, indecision, compromise, miles of legalistic red tape, and the presence of theorists in policy-making positions," said she attached no significance whatever to these mementoes.

After weeks of consultation, Maxon said, he "decided that I

SCARCITY TALK IS TABOO

Textile Supply Adequate For Clothes Demands If Buying Kept to Normal

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(P)—A wartime code of selling practices, aimed at discouraging excess buying and thus heading off the rationing of clothes, was laid down for textile dealers today by War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson.

The declaration of policy dooms for the duration all "scarcity" advertising and such remarks by store clerks as, "You had better buy several of these—we may not get any more."

Even the time-honored price comparison appeal—"Our price $6.95, regularly $8.95"—must be eliminated from advertising unless the sale is a genuine clearance, and the word "sale" must be shunned. The only permitted price comparison is with the government ceiling.

The code was worked out with representatives of large and small retailers by Arthur D. Whiteside, director of WPB's Office of Civilian Requirements.

"This is the most important and broadest step in individual commercial self-regulation ever attempted in this country," Whiteside declared in telegrams to merchants' organizations.

The government will not police stores for enforcement. Compliance is voluntary so long as the plan works. Whiteside's telegrams hinted at the alternative—government control of selling. He said he was certain retailers would successfully conserve civilian supplies by the program and thus "eliminate the necessity for stringent regulations."

Higher Prices For Wheat Sought By Senate Bloc

BY CLIFF SANDAHL

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(P)—More wheat states Senators carried their appeal for assurance of a parity price on the 1944 wheat crop to Price Administrator Prentiss Brown today with a request for removal of "the present unlawful ceiling on flour."

Senator Reed (R-Kas) said a letter had been signed by 116 Senators inquiring Ohio's Harold Burton, advising Brown that "any encouragement offered to the wheat farmer to increase his planting for 1944 harvest must come from administrative sources."

"Only can administrative authority assure the wheat farmer of an adequate support price—whether that be in the form of loans or payments supplemental to the market price."

The flour ceiling, which they characterized as the "artificial restraint" on the market price of wheat, is unlawful, the Senators said, because it is "fixed at 89 per cent of the parity price of wheat" instead of at the full parity price.

ITALIAN GENERAL CAUGHT

Axis Supply Port of Messina Blasted by Heavy Aerial Assault Near Italy

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

(By The Associated Press)
Crack British Eighth Army troops have stabbed four miles north of Augusta after beating back a heavy, dangerous German armored attack, and U. S. troops in southeastern Sicily have plunged six or seven miles deeper inland, it was announced today.

The anticipated strong Axis counterattacks against the swift Allied invasion thrusts were apparently materializing.

Springing against British positions around the seaport of Augusta, Nazi armored units actually penetrated to the harbor and isolated a British brigade inside the town before the Eighth Army counter-blow drove them back. The British then raced on to Brucoli, four miles north of the seaport.

The Allied communique asserted "considerable gains" were scored in the last 24 hours, and said the British had pushed "some miles" in their drive toward Catania.

The greatest advance was scored by a combined American, Canadian and British force in the center where a gain of six or seven miles was made in the Ragusa-Vizzini sector on a line parallel with the British east coast push.

Led by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., the Americans on the west flank dug into the difficult mountains, marking up a gain of about four miles, capturing another important airfield and taking important heights.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Invasion of Italy Proper Will Be Next, Is Belief Now That Sicily Appears Doomed

Increased Axis resistance is reported from Sicily today but the incubation of the Allied invasion has proceeded far enough so that we can do no harm by counting that chicken and looking about for other fields to conquer.

There seems to be widespread public expectation here at home that the next major venture of the beautifully synchronized United Nations fighting machine will be occupation of the Italian mainland. Indeed, a Madrid dispatch this morning says the Germans believe this will be the program if experience in Sicily leads the Allies to think Italy is ripe for the plucking. The Nazis are said to be rushing preparation of defenses in northern Italy.

A drive into Italy could happen, of course, but so could one or more of several other things. As a matter of fact, this uncertainty in itself represents a tactical triumph for the Allies. They've so cleverly mixed the pieces of the jig-saw puzzle of invasion that the Axis has been wholly unable to fit it together thus far. Even after it was perfectly clear that Sicily was to be one of the first points of attack, Berlin and Rome were fooled as to the exact time and place of landing.

And in the heat of operations in Sicily the hocus-pocus has been continued. The great Montgomery, Cromwellian leader of the famous British Eighth Army, issued an order of the day to his troops declaring that "the time has now come to carry the war into Italy and into the continent of Europe."

Was he naively giving away the secret at last, or was he sticking his tongue in his cheek and leading the Hitlerites up the alley? Well, I've encountered Montgomery personally and know he's far from naive, but it's anybody's guess what he was up to.

What advantages would the Allies secure by taking over Italy? One of the chief gains would be the tremendous moral effect right round the world. It would weaken the morale of the Axis, strengthen that of the Allies, and tend to swing neutral nations toward the United Nations.

From the military standpoint it would ensure Allied domination of the Mediterranean, and give them control of the Adriatic, thus opening up fresh lines into the Balkans. However, it must be said that apart from these advantages Italy already is so nearly impotent as to be of little value to itself or anybody else.

Not all that the prospectors see glittering in Italy is gold, by a long shot. The Allies are bound to consider whether it wouldn't put them into the red to take over Mussolini's sorry state.

On the debit side we should find the task of providing a nation of 45,000,000 with large quantities of food, clothing and even fuel, since the country imports most of its coal. That would be a bit of a job, what with the whole world calling for the necessities of life. Besides that there would be a vast job of administration and policing.

On the whole there are a lot of folk who are wondering whether it couldn't be about as profitable for the Allies to let Italy stew in its own fat for a while. It can't do much more damage militarily,

WILLIAMSPORT YOUTH IS HELD IN NAZI PRISON

Last of 13 Pickaway County Boys 'Missing' in Africa Is Heard From

The last of 13 Pickaway County men missing in action after the German thrust in North Africa had battered the American lines early in the Tunisian campaign, has been heard from.

He is Pvt. Lyman Jones, Jr., of Williamsport, and he is being held prisoner in Dulag 226, Germany. Word of his whereabouts was obtained by the International Red Cross.

The remainder of the 13 missing men have been heard from in German prisons. They have been missing since February.

The list includes Lester (Doc) Noggle, Scioto Township; Lyman Jones, Williamsport; Hoyt Timmons and Ned Enoch, Pickaway Township; Russell Lovenshimer, Williamsport; Jack Persinger and Kenneth Livesey, New Holland; Burnell and Russell Goodman, Kingston; Harold (Bud) Welsh, South Bloomfield; Robert Carpenter, Circleville; David Betts, Wayne Township and William H. Drake, Harrison Township.

and has ceased to be an asset to the harassed Hitler.

Whatever the answer may be to that, the Allies are in the enviable position of not being committed (or at least compelled) to pursue any cut and dried course as regards Italy. They can take it or leave it.

Many military experts incline to the view that the Allies are likely to finish cleaning up some more strategic islands when Sicily has been dealt with. One would expect big Sardinia to follow, and perhaps Corsica. Then there are Crete and some of the Dodecanese islands at the other end of the Mediterranean.

Once the thoroughfares of this great sea are secure, the Allies can make their choice or choices—the Balkans, Italy, up the Rhone Valley of France, across the English Channel into western France, into Norway from Britain. It wouldn't be surprising if several of these operations were put into effect simultaneously. What a squeeze that would be!

officer of Wright Field at the Wilmington Glider Test Field will be Major Charles H. Craig as officer in charge. Major Craig, a native of Baltimore, served in the last war with the Quartermaster Corps. In civilian life he worked for the Glenn L. Martin Co. and for Curtiss Flying Service. He was commissioned in 1931. Reporting to Wright Field in March, 1942, he has been assigned there as station technical inspector.

In charge of the experimental work at the field will be Major Bruce B. Price, chief of the glider branch, which is part of the material command's aircraft laboratory. Major Price, an Iowan, and a graduate of Iowa State College in mechanical engineering, was stationed at Hamilton Field, Calif., during 1938 and 1939, and reported to Wright Field in February, 1940.

Soldiers were first stationed at the Wilmington Airport the last of April, 1942, and have been there continuously since then at varying strengths. It was announced May 1, 1942, by officials at Wright Field that the Wilmington Airport was to be made into a glider field.

Since the field was taken over by the War Department its size has been increased and considerable facilities constructed for use by the troops.

Plans are being made by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce for a welcome for the officers and men at the Wilmington Glider Test Field, but a definite date has not been set, Robert E. Hadley, president, said Thursday, until the maximum number of troops arrive at the field.

An increasing number of planes have been flying over Washington C. H. and the surrounding area recently, some of them pulling gliders, and this activity is expected to be even greater now that the field is officially open.

Several of the officers now stationed at the field, or who are to be stationed here soon, have moved to Wilmington or are looking for houses or apartments for their families there.

ABOUT VACATIONS
Here in Washington C. H. and Fayette County, and we presume in almost every other place in the nation, we hear a lot of talk about vacations and lots of comment which arises from wishful thinking. Much of it is justified but as a matter of fact we all have to adjust ourselves to war conditions. Again and again the question comes up as to whether vacations should be abandoned for the duration. The sensible answer is—not in all cases. Indeed vacations taken at the right time and in the right way, are much more likely to prove helpful than hurtful. There is, however, opportunity now for exercising a lot of good common sense in this vacation question.
Men and women need relaxation. Sometimes they approach it in the wrong way and do themselves more harm than good. But most people occasionally do need to tone up their nerves. They need a change of occupation, no matter how brief and sometimes a change of scene.
Just now the use of the automobile for distant vacationing is considered out of the question. Also other transportation systems, rail and highways, are overburdened. Most busses and trains are crowded to suffocation. It may be necessary to ration transportation during this war-time, but we wonder how necessary it is for people to take long trips in order to have a vacation.
The American people are ingenious. It is quite probable that most of them will solve this problem to their own satisfaction. There are many things that can be done with the object of securing recreation even without the use of bus, train, or car. Many will discover the pleasures of home, the consolation of books, the satisfactions of neighborly social contacts, walks under the stars, little gatherings of friends for conversation, gardening, improvements on the premises by the use of ingenuity and muscle, hikes in the country in the early morning when the air is cool and the earth refreshed with dew, a trip by bicycle.
Enjoyment waits for those who know where to find it. Long trips, hurry and bustle, sight-seeing, going places just to be going, may be ruled out for the time in favor of more wholesome ways of getting a rest and restoring the balance of the mind and spirit.
One of the most famous of books, "The Natural History of Selbourne," was written by a man who in order to gather his information into inspiring and fascinating form never left his back lawn and garden.
Are there not discoveries to be made at home, or in the neighborhood, or within the community, however small? Vacations by all means—but not on long trails over counties and states. The times do not admit.
OPA AND VACATIONS
Directly, the OPA ruling allowing gasoline for one vacation trip per motorist affects only those eastern seaboard states where the pleasure driving is banned. But its implications are much broader. However one looks at the ruling, it reiterates and emphasizes the long established fact that the OPA is irresponsible. Pleasure driving is forbidden, with-

The doughboy had fixed himself up on the ground in his waterproof sleeping bag and was catching a little shut-eye in spite of a heavy rain-storm. There was a blinding flash and a loud crash followed by loud yells and violent wriggling from the soldier. Lightning had struck the zipper of the sleeping bag and had run all the way around it, welding him in. His buddies had to split the bag with knives to get him out.

in the eastern area, because transportation facilities are not adequate to supply gasoline and heating oil for civilians and, at the same time, to provide petroleum products for overseas shipment to our fighting men.
For every gallon of gasoline that the OPA gives up now, to satisfy pressure that has political implications, either our fighters in and around Europe will go short during the invasion or, more likely, easterners will shiver and suffer next winter for lack of heating oil.
That is one alternative—a reason why such a concession probably was unwise in the first place. But let's waive that in favor of another alternative, and suppose that transportation capacity can be spared to supply gasoline for vacation driving.
Why, then, should fuel be granted only to those who are prosperous enough to have summer homes in the country or to go on regular "vacation trips?" Do they need rest, relaxation, convenience, more than the less prosperous.
If the OPA can spare eight gallons to Joe Jones' family to drive 60 miles each way to a lake or pleasure hotel for two weeks, there is no equitable reason why Jack Smith's family should not use eight gallons to drive 10 miles to the beach, picnic grounds or even a golf course every other day while Jack is on vacation.
Such a ruling is so obviously unfair that it is apparent nobody in the OPA troubled to think through this vacation gasoline ruling. And that indicates that once more, as so often in the past, the OPA succumbed suddenly to pressure from outside and made a half-baked decision based upon inadequate pre-consideration.
So many such rulings have been made, modified, rescinded, restored, amended and generally bedevilled that everybody now takes it for granted that the OPA can be pushed around, ignored and scorned.

Washington at a Glance
By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—If you are that interested, this summer is the time to put your Congressman or Senator on the record for post-war peace plans.
It could very well be that this will be the last recess Congress will have before some or all of our enemies are defeated. When Congress reconvenes in September work on the calendar will keep it humping until the appropriation bills are out of the way early next summer. Most military experts predict that there will be some decisive action against at least the European portion of the Axis by that time.
Sen. Joseph H. Ball (R. Minn.) has served notice on the Senate that he and the co-authors of the BZHT resolution (for Republican Senators Ball and Burton, Ohio; and Democratic Senators Hatch of New Mexico and Hill of Alabama) will demand action in September on at least a definition of United States world peace aims.
In the House, the resolution of Rep. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) also demanding a statement of House policy on post-war peace plans, is awaiting assignment to the calendar by the Rules committee, and already has been approved by the Foreign Relations Committee.
That Senate bill, taken about three months ago by The Associated Press, showed that 24 Senators favor taking a stand now for a world police force to keep the peace. While 32 Senators opposed it (many of whom are not by any means isolationists, but objected to the declaration of such a policy now for other reasons), there were another 32 who had not reached any decision on the matter, and only eight who could not be reached for a statement.
It is this last 40-23 Democrats and 17 Republicans—who should be placed "on the record" and the

War Is Ally of TB
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WAR, I AM afraid, teaches few useful lessons. But I think it is undoubtedly true that World War I taught us a great deal about tuberculosis.
In the first place few even of the most careful and pessimistic students of the subject had any idea of the amount of latent, semi-active tuberculosis in the general population. We had, it is true, few reliable methods of detecting tuberculosis in the early stages during the examination of recruits at that time. But the strenuous and arduous physical exercises which soldiers have to go through rapidly broke down draftees who had been passed by the examining boards and we found, and still have evidence, in our military hospitals of the tremendous extent of unsuspected tuberculosis in the community.
The second thing we learned was that the methods of examination ordinarily employed were inadequate to detect the early or latent case. These methods were primarily the use of the stethoscope, percussion, and the examination of the sputum for tubercle bacilli.
Not Revealed by Stethoscope
Many soldiers were passed by the examining boards simply because the involvement of the lungs lay too deep to be revealed by the stethoscope and since then we have learned the astonishing fact that it is easier to recover tubercle bacilli from the stomach contents than from the sputum.
In the years that have passed the great advance in diagnosis has been the use of the X-ray, and all the draftees in the present army have been examined by this method. Roughly, 99 per cent of those who have any trace of tuberculosis are detected and returned home for treatment. I have seen one or two cases in army hospitals of draftees who have broken down under the discipline of drill, but this is nothing compared to the number we had in World War I. Since early detection and early

Thieves Show Cunning in Picking Out Best
LONDON (P)—Dealers and the police are trying to end a wave of book-stealing in London and other large cities in Great Britain.
The losses are greater in large shops where people can handle books at will. Because of the reduction in the number of employees, it is no longer possible to supervise the shops properly. Books are not so plentiful and are more expensive than in pre-war days.
The thieves display remarkable cunning, booksellers say. "Only the keenest observers can catch them at it," one dealer said. "They stroll along the shop, taking books out of the shelves, two or three at a time. But when they take out three books, they return only two, and where two have been browsed over just one will be put back. The other slipped under a coat, hidden in a newspaper or, if the person is a woman, dropped into a handbag."

Leave My Heart Alone
BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION
SYNOPSIS
KAREN BELL, wealthy and lovely, has been the sweetheart of another member of her rich Florida set, PAUL WYATT, since childhood. However, she surprisingly encounters a young stranger, obviously not of her social standing, and learns that he is MARTIN HALIDAY.
YESTERDAY: Karen and her father are about to say something to each other.
CHAPTER SIX
IN HER father's study, with its book-lined shelves reaching clear to the huge beamed ceiling, Karen began what she had to say to him with a childish question and Denise always had used when they had taken their small troubles and problems to him. "If I ask you something, will you tell me true?" And Jim Bell responded with the answer he always had had ready for his motherless daughters. "Truer than true, my dear." It was part of the bond between them, although what he still could not understand was how such a bond could have failed with Denise, that he would always give the truth, whether it be difficult or not. But maybe he was the one who had failed with Denise, he thought now, looking into his younger daughter's wide blue eyes; maybe had he spared her the truth he would not have lost her. He hoped he could do better with Karen. He must hold her love, at no matter what cost. "Do you want me to marry Paul?" Karen put her question simply. Yet, in a way, it was a round-about question; it did not state what her heart wanted or dictated; it asked what was in his. "Well, now, chickadee," Jim tilted his swivel chair, smiling up at her. How lovely she was, how untouched, how young. He knew that she was growing up and considered herself, no doubt, a very sophisticated young modern. "I can't say that I WANT you to marry anyone." "You don't want me to be an old maid, do you, or one of those mannish career women that you claim are much more frustrated and objectionable?" "I do not." Her father bit off the end of his cigar. He pushed back the box on his wide, old-fashioned desk. Marriage was best for a woman, the only fulfillment. The right kind of marriage, of course. He would rather have seen Denise following any career—almost he rather would have seen her dead—than the marriage she had made. Now, with the news contained in that cable, he knew he ought to relinquish some of the old, cold bitterness. "I want you to be happy," he said now to this youngest daughter. Yes, and he meant it. He wanted her to have happiness, at no matter what cost, too. "There is no one I'd rather see you married to than Paul," he added further, answering her simple question finally and as directly as she had put it. Karen had known that that was what his answer would be. It did indeed make everything final. But that was what she had decided she wanted, too, wasn't it? "Paul wants us to announce our engagement at the Festival. He said he already had talked it over with you, Jim, so you needn't sit there, puffing away at your inevitable cigar, and pretend you are surprised. He wants me to set a date for this winter. He seems anxious, and he said he thought you'd like it that way, too, to have everything settled." "So I gathered." Her father carefully dumped ashes into a convenient silver tray. "It's only natural for a young man to feel that way. If I agreed with Paul it is only because everything, as you phrase it, my dear, is so unsettled in this mad world today. But the point is, how about you? Are you as eager as your young man? Are you as sure of your heart, chickadee? You must not be rushed into anything, least of all into marriage, by Paul or by me, unless there is not one iota of doubt in you, yourself." "I'm sure there isn't," Karen said, believing that her answer was "truer than true," too. She believed that any doubts she had had were now dispelled. She supposed she was as sure as any one ever could be. "Then that's that." Her father's smile broadened, so that only now he allowed her to see how much her answer pleased him, how much he had hoped that that was what it would be. "Paul is a fine young man. He comes from fine stock. He will do his best to make you happy, and he won't take you away from me. That may be a selfish thought," he added, "but it is a natural one for a father to have." Especially for Jim Bell, who had one daughter taken, not just out of his life, but out of his heart. For he knew that if he had never been able to forgive Denise she had never forgiven him, either. Unless now—in the cablegram . . . but he must not count on too much yet. He must just be thankful and hopeful, which was enough for the present. "No one on earth could take me away from you," Karen assured him. She knew that he was thinking about Denise, with the old pain. So that she made her words a solemn and ardent vow. Then to remove the solemnity she tacked on gayly, "Not a dozen husbands, darling, although I hope I shan't have that many." "One should be sufficient," her father agreed smilingly, yet seriously, too, for he was old-fashioned in that as well as a number of other things. He did not believe in divorce. No, not even for Denise, although he feared her marriage had turned out as badly as he had known it was bound to be. "I told Paul I couldn't possibly get ready until after the holidays," Karen said. That would give her only two or three months, and how a lot of fuss, doesn't seem appropriate somehow with all the suffering and sorrow overseas, and Paul seems so afraid we'll be dragged in before the year is over, although I hope he's mistaken. And I just want you to make the announcement yourself, to our friends and guests, at the Festival. Is that all right, Jim?" "I think that sounds very much all right," her father assured her.

POLICE POWERS ARE LIMITED IN AIR RAID TESTS

Attorney General Rules on Civilian Defense Auxiliary Corps

Auxiliary police and air raid wardens today had a ruling by Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert to guide them and govern their actions when Washington C. H. and Fayette County undergo a semi-surprise air raid test some time next week.

There was admittedly some confusion as to just how far the authority of these emergency officers went when the county had its first and only blackout test a little more than a month ago. An arrest was made by a warden for violation of the rules then but the case was dismissed by Col. Rell G. Allen with explanations when the violator was brought to the City Hall. Col. Allen, as the head man at the control center there, said he did not think it would happen again and added that it was the result of a misunderstanding.

The attorney general has ruled that the auxiliary police of a civilian defense corps are not endowed with any law enforcement powers either during actual or threatened air raid emergencies—unless they have been appointed deputies or peace officers by the sheriff, mayor or director of public safety. The ruling was made to the Ohio State Council of Civilian Defense.

Auxiliary police, when acting as deputies with the approval of the Common Pleas Court or city administration, have the power of peace officers and may enter any building, using force if necessary, to put out lights.

The main thorns in the first blackout test here were lights which householders had left going while they were away. Some wardens reported that the more zealous among them were inclined to force entry to put them out. However, there were no official reports of such action.

The blackout here was labeled "virtually perfect" for all parts of the city and county.

Col. Allen said in commenting on the first test that the auxiliary police and wardens were to help residents by explaining the regulations and reasons for them. Refusal to cooperate or defiance of instructions, he said, was to be reported to headquarters for proper action. He pointed out that, with proper and sufficient evidence of violations, violators had been severely penalized in other cities. That was not necessary here, he said, because of the wholehearted support given by the people, both in the city, the villages and the rural sections of the county.

The attorney general also has ruled that township trustees may use general funds of the township to pay part of the cost of installing a bell to be used for air raid alarms. The fact that the bell might be placed in the belfry atop a school house, does not change the rights of the trustees.

THE DAYTON POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY

Waste in war is a crime. Do not waste electricity just because it's not rationed.

Be it ever so humble...

ANY LITTLE DWELLING in this fair, free land of ours is a heaven-bestowed blessing! How fortunate to be sheltered from the elements and at the same time protected against tormentors and marauders. Size of the abode matters not. Whether it's built of tile or twigs—that, also, is inconsequential. The thing that matters most is that it's a refuge for loved ones, with kindly neighbors on each side, all of whom are safe and free—FREE as the wild wind. A cozy place where youngsters can be nurtured—reared in comfort and contentment—taught to be good neighbors, and to fly, and sing.

HOUSING SHORTAGE? Yes. We can't always find or have the accommodations we'd like. It's necessary to forego many conveniences. We must do the best we can with whatever resources are at hand.

FOOD RATIONING? Well, maybe we can't have porterhouse steaks or two cups of coffee, but why set up a "chirp" about it? We must do without luxuries—share and share alike—that's the system. There's good substantial sustenance aplenty for those of us who are willing to forage for it—to dig and scratch for it—in the gardens of our bountiful country.

ADEQUATE LIGHT AND HEAT? Certainly! Of these, we may be sure. A constant source is available to us right at our very "wing tips." ELECTRICITY is the source—dependable, economical electricity—and backed up by service daily, hourly, momentarily, by

Sugar Grove WCTU Met with Mrs. Garman

Mrs. Frank Garman graciously opened her home to the members of the Sugar Grove WCTU Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Frank Haines presided over the meeting, with Mrs. Edith Scott presenting inspiring devotionals.

After the short business session, Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Ethel Cavine, Mrs. Edith Scott, Mrs. Estella Scott, Mrs. Gladys Hays and Miss Blanche Roberts read most interesting articles.

Mrs. Haines gave a thorough account of the Farm Mission Program at the Children's Home, recently.

During the social hour, the hostess assisted by her daughter, Charlotte, Marilyn Hays, and Lois Cavine, served delicious refreshments.

Picnic Supper

For the pleasure of Ensign William F. Wilson, a group gathered at the Washington Country Club Wednesday evening for a picnic supper and delightful evening.

Enjoying the affair with Ensign Wilson were Mrs. Paul Jones, of Bowling Green, Mrs. George O'Brien, of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Etta Junk, of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

Sundress and Bolero

Take time out for play in this back-buttoned sportster, Anne Adams Pattern 4122. The waist-seam is slimly "upped" in front; the back neck is low or high. Try it in a crisp chambray or bright gingham. Have the bolero in contrast. Wear it with other dresses.

Pattern 4122 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, dress, takes 2 7/8 yards 35-inch; bolero 1 yard 35-inch.

Send SIXTEEN CENTS in coin for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER.

TEN CENTS more brings you our new Summer Pattern Book with cool, smart styles for work and play.

Send your order to Record-Herald Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York, N. Y.

Five Generations

Unusual and of exceptional interest to Fayette Countians, is this family of five generations. Unusual in the fact that each is a female, and each with the exception of Mrs. Krantz, is the oldest or first child of a family. The picture shows Mrs. Nancy Roberts, 92, the great-great-grandmother; Mrs. Annette Rowe, right back, the great-grandmother; Mrs. Martin G. Morris, left back, the grandmother; Mrs. B. A. Krantz and baby daughter, Ellen Morris, two months old, of Raleigh, N. C., left front; Mrs. Harry Craig and little daughter, Ann Morris, one-year-old, of Woodville, front right.

Merchandising Students Have Summer Work

Two hundred girls from many states are now enrolled in Ohio State University's two-year-old curriculum in retail merchandising for women, establishing in recognition of the increasingly important role played by women in this field, in peace times as well as in war.

Practical field work during the sophomore or junior year is a requirement of the course, and gives each girl a personal opportunity to acquire the knowledge of contact.

Miss Jean Langhoff, formerly of 315 East Street, is a student in this course, and is working during the summer months at F. and R. Lazarus Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Garringer and family had as their recent guests Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sparks, and daughter, Ellen, of Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sollars, and family, and Miss Vivian Gray, of Sabina, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Straley and family, of Springfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Elden Garringer and family, of Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Sollars Entertain Circle

Circle No. 4 of Grace Methodist Church were delightfully entertained at the country home of Mrs. W. W. Montgomery, Wednesday afternoon, for their July meeting, Mrs. Walter Sollars was the assisting hostess and together had provided numerous pleasures and comforts for her guests.

The spacious home was ideal for the very hot afternoon, with cool breezes from off the lawn a welcomed note. Garden flowers were admired and placed advantageously throughout the rooms.

Miss Martha Nisley read most impressive devotionals, followed by a prayer in War Time by Jane Mark.

Mrs. A. L. Rummans, the circle leader, conducted a short business session, during which time it was decided not to have the picnic in August and that the next meeting would be held the second Tuesday of September.

Mrs. Heber Deere was the program leader and had planned a most entertaining program, all given by children of the members. Little Ann Deere gave a lovely recitation, "Mother," followed by another delightful poem, "Zipper Jail," by Esther Marting, "Make Me A Blessing," was the title of the prettily sung number by Joyce Rummans, followed by young Bobby Montgomery singing three light and delightful solos. A piano solo, artistically played by Alice Lee Montgomery, closed the program.

A tempting collation was served late in the afternoon to the members and young guests, and two visitors, Miss Carolyn Carr, of Cincinnati and Mrs. Gilbert Sollars.

Shirley Roads July Bride of Joseph Anderson

Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Roads, formerly of this city, and now of Bainbridge, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Shirley, to Private Joseph E. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson, of Portland, Oregon.

The ceremony took place July 9th, at quarter 'til seven o'clock in the Hyde Park Methodist Church, Tampa, Florida, with the Reverend Harry H. Waller officiating.

The bride looked lovely in a white tailored suit with accessories to match. Her shoulder corsage was of red and white rosebuds with baby breath.

Mrs. Anderson is a graduate of Washington High School with the class of 1939.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or easily passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

More Fireworks for Bums; Bobo Refuses To Be Traded

By JUDSON BAILEY (By The Associated Press)

Fireworks still are popping among the Brooklyn Dodgers and that loud noise you heard last night was Louis Norman (Bobo) Newsum exploding as he was bounced out of the Brooklyn baseball parlor.

The latest repercussions from the Dodgers' family feud were a statement by Branch Rickey, president of the club, that he would support Manager Leo Durocher to the limit and announcement that Newsum, the cause celebre of last week's rebellion, had been traded to the St. Louis Browns for a pair of antiquated southpaws, Fritz Ostermuller and Archie McKain.

Newsum, never at loss for words, roared in defiance: "I don't want to play in St. Louis. I won't play in St. Louis and I'm not going to report."

"I got the dirtiest deal any ball player ever got. I've been the great all the way through this thing. I guess I'll have to quit and I will quit before reporting to St. Louis. I heard about this only yesterday afternoon and I offered to buy my release from the Brooklyn club, but was refused."

Whether the boisterous Bobo goes through with his threat remains to be seen. Changing uniforms is no novelty to him for even before today he was the most traded pitcher in the big leagues and in 13 seasons in the National and American Leagues had played variously with Brooklyn, the Chicago Cubs, Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Washington Senators and St. Louis Browns. In fact, during his long career he had

-Spying- On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(P)—The A. A. U. handbook probably won't list any new broad jumping records established by sports writers in July, 1943, but from here it seems that the boys have made some remarkably long leaps at conclusions about what Branch Rickey would say to Leo Durocher and vice versa. . . . We don't know what "De Revolutin" in Brooklyn amounted to, nor what Leo actually said about resigning, but anybody who gave the matter a serious second thought realized that Rickey would have to stand back of his manager as long as possible. . . . The general impression when neither Branch nor Leo turned up for the all-star game Tuesday was that they were holding their discussion privately while the scribes were in Philadelphia. . . . And sure enough, the publicized conference didn't take place yesterday but Rickey came out with a statement that Durocher still is "in."

Short Thought

If Rickey did give Durocher the heave-ho, or let him resign, he'd be on the spot himself the rest of the season. . . . Any new manager would have to cure the dissension on the club and get the skidding bums back into the pennant fight—two tough jobs. . . . So if Branch let Durocher out and the move wasn't successful, the directors might let Branch out with no more ceremony. . . . He's only a hired hand, too.

Record Effort

If Gunder Haegg returns to Sweden by plane instead of by tanker, he'll likely make his farewell appearance at Yankee Stadium about August 21 instead of at St. New Orleans. And he may try for a mile record at Princeton as a build-up for the fast show.

Two-Year-Olds-Coats Get Big Test In Futurity At Washington Park

Occupied by John Marsch

By WALTER L. JOHNS (Central Press Correspondent)

First big racing test for the two-year-olds comes up at Washington Park, Homewood, Ill., this Saturday, when the topflight juveniles of the nation run for money and glory in the 10th renewal of the classic Arlington Futurity, a stake expected to gross in excess of $60,000.

From this race, a six-furlong sprint, should come a favorite for the Kentucky Derby and other three-year-old classics in 1944—but if one does it will have to defy a jinx which has plagued the winners of all the Futurities run thus far.

Not one of the nine winners of the Arlington Futurity has gone on to become a champion three-year-old. Not one has won the Kentucky Derby. Only two ran in the Derby and they finished way down the list. The others either were scratched from the big Louisville classic or weren't even nominated.

Chuck Worthy Represents County At Wednesday Races

Chuck Worthy, McKinley Kirk's reliable veteran pacer, represented the Washington C. H. contingent of harness horses at Wednesday's Grand Circuit racing at North Randall. He was not among the four called back for a fourth heat to determine the race winner.

Trotting smoothly and well ahead of a sparse field, Fighting Scot sped to victory in the $3,703 national stake, the highlight of the day's program.

Three-year-old pacers took the limelight Thursday, in the $2,280

BRITISH CANTEN GIRLS WATCH ACROSS CHANNEL

DOVER, England (AP) — Seven young girls in a canteen amuse themselves by telling the time from a clock in the centre of Calais across the Channel. On clear days they can plainly see the French coast and taller buildings, and with glasses can see the hour and minute hand on a clock tower in the town itself.

Rep. Clarence Brown Coming To Pipeline Meeting

DAMAGE CLAIMS TO BE TAKEN UP FRIDAY EVENING

Prosecutor John B. Hill Acts To Bring Contentions of Farmers Here To Head

A showdown on responsibility for damages done to farms when the big pipe line was laid through Fayette County early this year today appeared in prospect at the meeting of landowners and pipe line officials Friday night in the Common Pleas Court room.

John B. Hill, the county prosecutor who started to bring the dispute to a head about a month ago by calling the interested farmers together to work out some solution of the problem, said the primary purpose of the forthcoming meeting was "to get satisfaction for damages done to property and to determine the responsibility and liability definitely," for any further damage that may be caused by construction of another line.

While this meeting, like the previous one held last week, is informal it has a very definite legal and official tinge.

Hon. Clarence J. Brown, who represents this, the seventh district, in the national congress, Wednesday confirmed by letter a telephone agreement with Hill to attend the meeting. He wrote: "Have arranged to be with you Friday evening." There was little else in his letter, but Hill said that Rep. Brown's presence at the meeting "would give it weight" and that he would be here in the role of an "observer" and as an official of the federal government, which is financing the construction of the pipe line.

The prosecutor said he did not know whether the congressman would have anything to say to the meeting or whether he would merely take notes. He pointed out that the pipe line is being put through with the backing of the government and that as a representative of the people in the government, Rep. Brown had told him in his telephone conversation that he was "very much interested" in seeing how damage claims are handled.

The prosecutor declared he had learned that The War Emergency Pipe Line, Inc., had sent special investigators into the county several days ago to gather facts and other pertinent data. He added that his informant had told him the investigators had said the company planned "prompt disposition" of the complaints. He added he had not met the investigators.

One of the pipeline officials here Wednesday was John Waters of Little Rock, Ark., head of the right-of-way department, now of Cincinnati, who was stationed in this city several months. He and another official conferred with some of the leading landowners along the route, it was indicated.

Prosecutor Hill said he had started action—through the meetings of landowners—because of the many complaints from farmers and landowners that they

39 INTERMENTS ARE MADE HERE

Quarterly Report Is Made By Superintendent of Cemetery

During the second quarter of 1943 there were 39 interments made in the Washington C. H. Cemetery, according to the quarterly report filed by Supt. W. S. Baughn, and accepted at a joint meeting of the City Council and Union Township trustees.

The report showed that during the quarter, ending June 30, $2,221.77 was received and $4,889.91 paid out leaving a balance on hands of $2,899.46. Balance at the beginning of the quarter was $5,577.60.

During the quarter the sum of $2,220 was invested in U. S. Bonds with a maturity value of $3,000.

Trustees Will Rodgers and W. R. Moats were present for the joint session.

GIVEN DOUBLE FINE IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Hedges Stewart, wanted on an assault charge, was picked up by the police, Wednesday evening and was intoxicated at the time, so in Police Court Thursday morning he was fined $16.20 on the assault charge and $11.20 on the other charge, when arraigned before Judge S. A. Murry.

could get no satisfaction in their claims for damages. He said they told him that appeals to various officials brought only suggestions that they "take it up with someone else."

Two high officials of the company are understood to have sent word that they expect to attend the meeting Friday night. One, it was said, would come from the Cincinnati office of the Emergency Pipe Line Co. and the other probably would be A. H. Land, assistant general manager of the company whose office is in Cleveland.

Farmers and landowners have complained that ditches were the chief sufferers of the laying of the pipe line. Some say they were broken and others say they were not replaced properly and that they have become clogged with dirt as a result. Crops, especially wheat, they claim were damaged and the ground left untillable because of the way it was torn up by the equipment plowing through the mud.

There are nearly 6,000,000 victory gardens on the British Isles.

MANY PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED BY CITY COUNCIL

City Budget, Bad Railroad Crossings and Garbage Are Included

The annual budget, railroad crossings, garbage removal, and a few other things were under discussion at the regular session of City Council, Wednesday night, but little business was transacted at the meeting.

All members were present except Sites, who was excused. The report of Judge S. A. Murry, for the month of June, showed collections of fines, fees and forfeitures amounting to $725.89, which was rated an unusually good month in police court circles.

Councilman James Ducey mentioned the bad condition of some of the railroad crossings, particularly the North Street crossing, and predicted someone would be killed or injured unless repairs were made.

He said the B. and O. had planned to repair the North Street crossing but was short of workmen to look after it.

City Manager Edwin Ducey stated that something must be done about the crossings, as others were in bad shape. Suggestion was made that the city do the work and assess it against the railroads.

City Manager Ducey said that the D. T. and I. now has material here and is looking after its crossings in the city.

After discussion of the railroad crossings ended, City Manager Ducey gave an outline of the city's finances at the present time, showing complete knowledge of the various departments and giving a resume of the condition of various funds, which indicated the city is living within its income.

Ducey also stated that the budget hearing had been set for the next council meeting night in two weeks, and would be held at 7 o'clock, preceding council session.

He then outlined the general budget for the coming year, and stated that if there was no change in the present situation, the city could live within its budget without difficulty. The plan for collecting garbage and removing refuse, followed in Bellefontaine, was called to attention of council by Ducey, who submitted a copy of the ordinance adopted in Bellefontaine.

He stated that many complaints about garbage and refuse removal, which had not been satisfactory, had reached him.

It was also stated that complaints of stray dogs running over Victory Gardens and other people's property generally, had been unusually large, and the question was asked as to what the dog catcher is doing that the stray dogs are not given attention.

OFTEN!

Dear Folks:-
Yesterday, I received a batch of mail, and it was certainly good to get the news from home. Tell Mary her son arrived—this time they're going and do they feel good on the dogs.
There was some trouble about buying for me with the money I send home and I'm going to come a vacation after what we have been through. Last night we went to town on pass and saw an American movie, it sure was good, it made us realize how right the American way of living is.
Oh yes, home, I've gained 9 pounds since I left—Good Old Army Chow!
What close work, every thing is fine with me, but so every day.
Love, Bill
